

Dry Brush at Daybreak

(Well, actually more like mid-morning...)

Would you like to spend a quiet morning with your children studying nature and learning to paint using the dry brush technique?

Come, spend a morning in my backyard and we'll take it step-by-step, trouble-shooting, problem-solving, tip-giving and sharing as we go.

Suitable for parents and children ages 5 and up, keeping in mind the hope for a calm atmosphere. Childcare provided for the little ones inside from 10 - 11:30.

You will need the following materials:

- Nature Notebook (If you have one.

Otherwise, I'll provide paper.)

- Watercolour paints

(I use a simple box of Prang watercolours.)

- #2 watercolour paintbrush.

This is important.

Anything larger will make a mess.

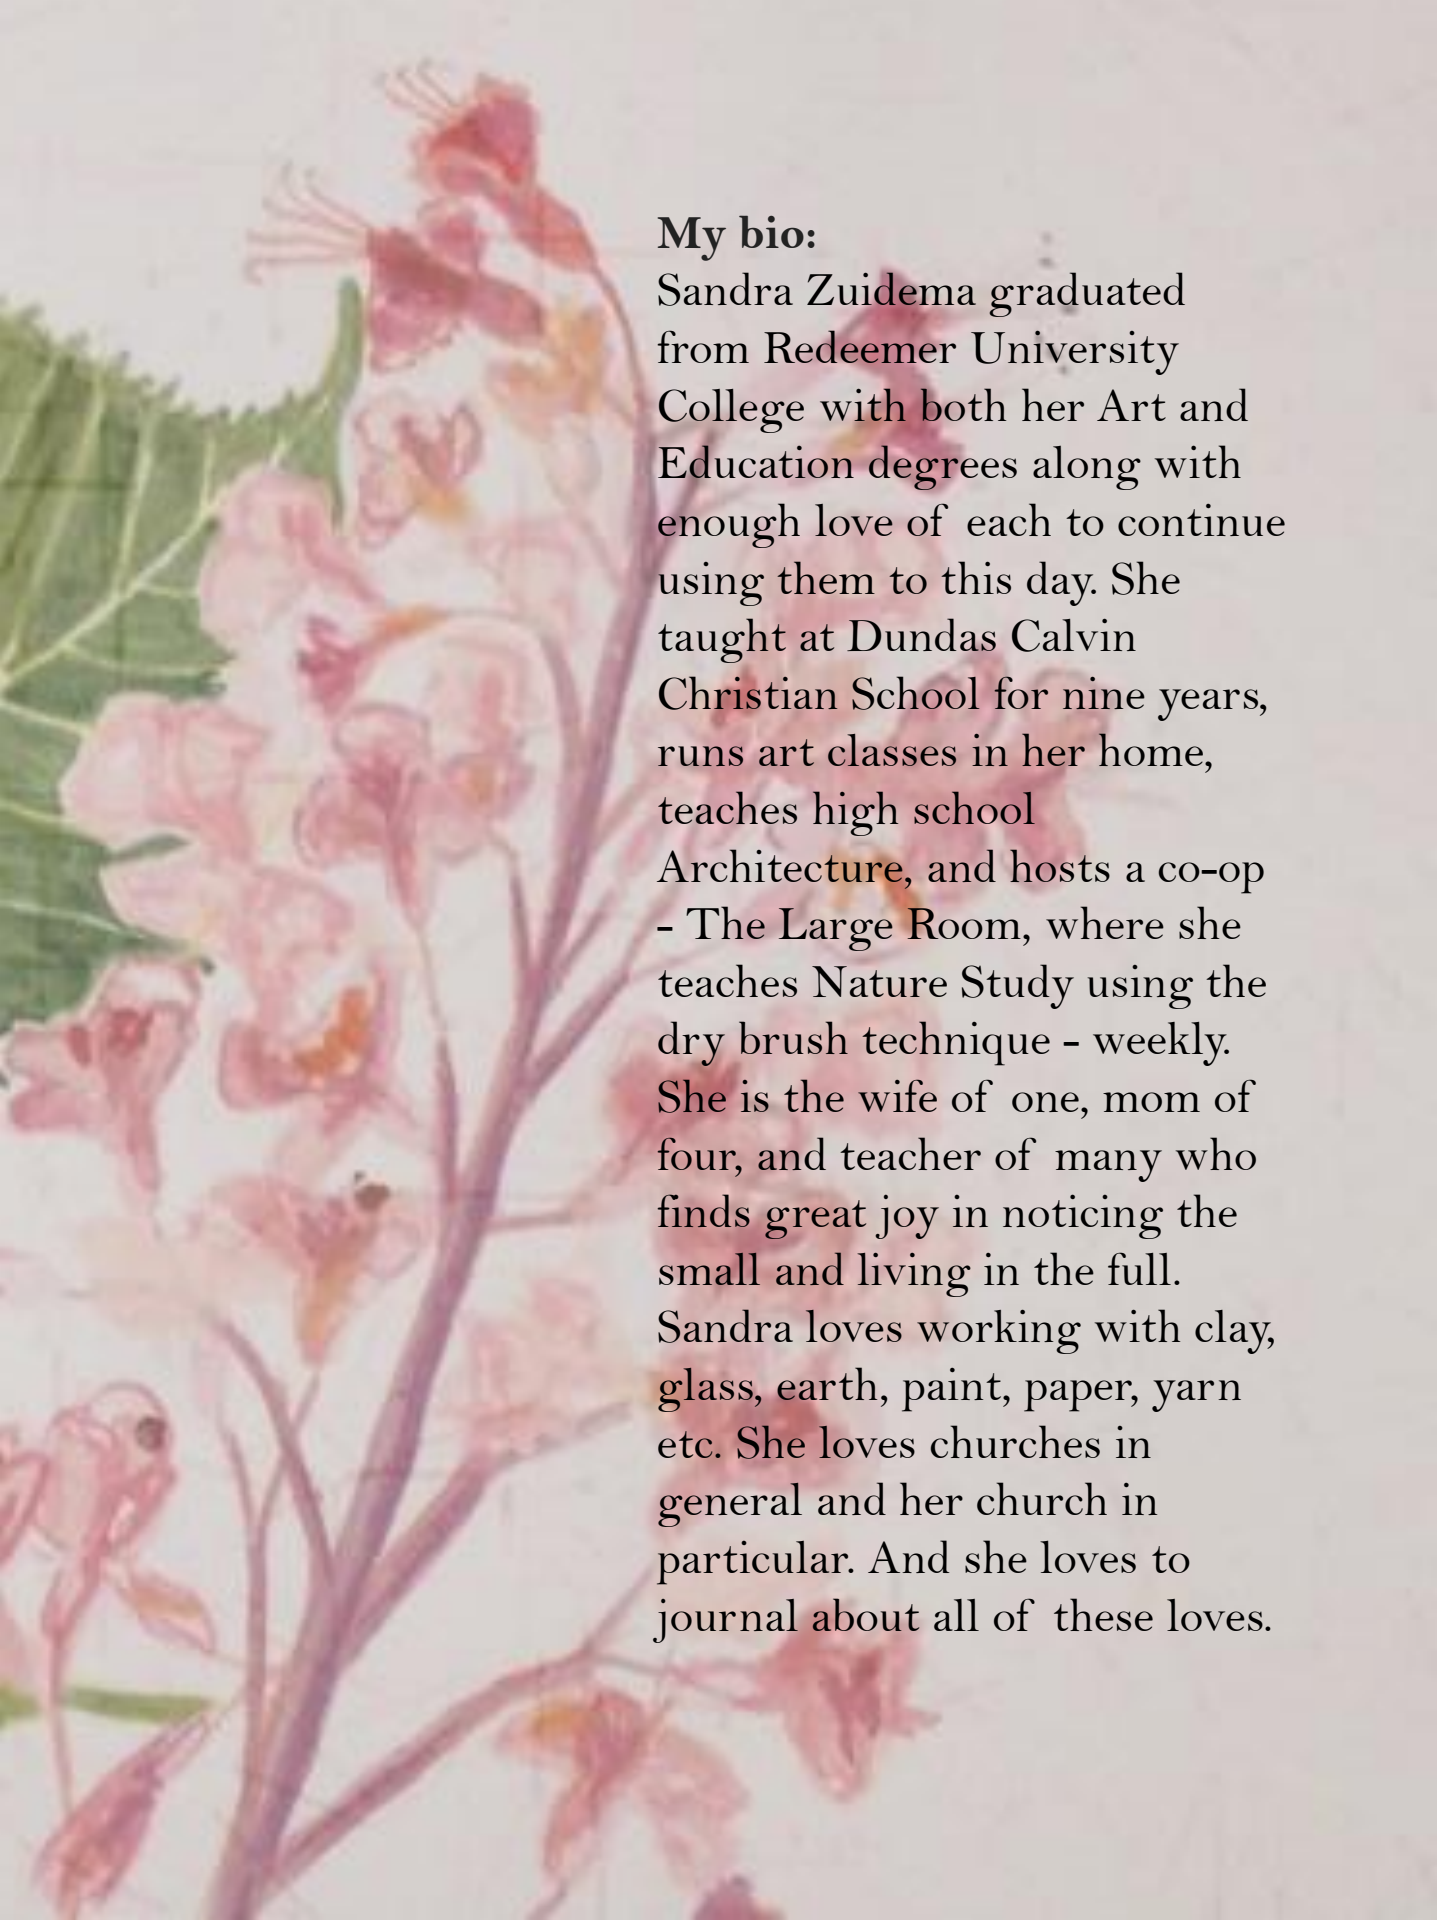

Feel free to take a picnic lunch if you'd like to stay and socialize a bit!

Where: 6 Santa Fe Crt., Hamilton, ON.

When: Wednesday, Aug. 19

Time: 10 - 12 in the morning.

Cost: $5/person, $15/family

My bio:

Sandra Zuidema graduated from Redeemer University College with both her Art and Education degrees along with enough love of each to continue using them to this day. She taught at Dundas Calvin Christian School for nine years, runs art classes in her home, teaches high school Architecture, and hosts a co-op - The Large Room, where she teaches Nature Study using the dry brush technique - weekly. She is the wife of one, mom of four, and teacher of many who finds great joy in noticing the small and living in the full. Sandra loves working with clay, glass, earth, paint, paper, yarn etc. She loves churches in general and her church in particular. And she loves to journal about all of these loves.
